

Hung Le

An author, musician, clown, actor and all round song and dance man, Hung's stand up work and theatre shows are always edgy, satirical, political and his musical send ups go straight for the jocular. Hung Le is a violinist turned comedian who first made his mark in 1987 as the winner of Hey Hey It's Saturday's Red Faces (Australia's top rating national variety show). Since then he has appeared at numerous comedy festivals and venues both here and overseas. The Vietnamese-born performer, now based in Melbourne, has made documentaries for the ABC, SBS and Discovery Channel and appeared in films including The Wogboy, Fat Pizza and Broken Hill.

A constant on the world festival stage and TV since 1988, Hung has made documentaries for the ABC, SBS, Discovery Channel. TV includes CNN, MTV, The Muppet Show, Wow Wow (Japan), London Weekend Television and all throughout Asia.
